

Solo writing assignments:

1. Collect a series of found song lyrics to be whispered into the sleeping ear of a character you love.
2. Write a love letter to be scrawled in lipstick on a mirror in your own bathroom and erased before your love can read it.
3. Create a song from found objects and found sounds (the internet is a fine source) that expresses a secret desire you would not share with your best friend but wish you could.
4. Write one page of your character's diary; your character has just received the biggest disappointment of their entire life.
5. Write one page of your character's diary; your character knows that their father will secretly read this diary.
6. Write a letter to a person you wish you could tell your darkest secret to; you will never deliver this letter.
7. Find a poem that expresses your feelings toward another character. You will share this poem without letting the character know you sent it.
